

Real journalism — fair, balanced and faithful.

Who reads the National Catholic Register weekly newspaper?

Only the most demanding, discerning and “tuned in” Catholics in the country.

Register subscribers and their “pass-along” recipients know that, when it comes to applying the mind of the Church to the issues of the day, no other source of Catholic news and views is more practical or more valuable.

With an unparalleled combination of journalistic clarity, doctrinal precision and unwavering fidelity to the Pope and Magisterium, the Register equips its readers to evangelize and catechize at the water cooler, on the town square and in their living room.

Meanwhile, Register advertisers know that news consumers this committed to the truths of the Catholic faith make for loyal, repeat-business customers.

Fact:

Nearly half of Register readers give at least $1,000 per year to charitable organizations. More than 30% donate $5,000 or more.

Fact:

On average, Faith & Family readers annually donate just under $6,000 to charity.

Double Exposure

Now there are two ways to put your product or service in front of this peerless audience: our traditional print weekly and our digital edition, NCRegister.com.

The Register Online offers readers full access to all the print version’s news, features and commentary, a searchable archive of virtually everything we’ve published in the 2000s, and a wealth of fresh and extended content available only to our online readers.

Its weblog provides incisive, up-to-the-minute analysis of breaking news as it happens.

And the website offers advertisers a chance to exponentially expand their exposure to “Register Catholics.”

Advertise in the Register in both media — print and digital — and watch your sales gain mass appeal.
